Mobile Wallet Documents

Trax✓Print™

Adding a digital wallet version of your protected document or ID

Trax Print also gives document owners the option to add their protected document or ID to their mobile phone wallet.

A link can be supplied to the owner of the document where they can add the Trax QR code to the built-in wallet of their phone.

The wallet pass will have the same Trax QR code of their document or ID displayed and when shown to a person they want to share their information with, the person just scans the QR code with their Trax Print app. They will receive the digital version of the document or ID in their registered email inbox. A notification will also be received by the document owner both via email and directly on the mobile wallet pass.

Built in security features

The wallet pass can be locked to one mobile device, and when scanned by the Trax Print app, the verified version of the document or ID delivered is watermarked to ensure it is not used as an original.

Details on the document or ID can also be redacted to protect the document owners privacy. Only certain authorised scanners can see information that may be classed as sensitive, where unauthorised scanners requesting a copy of the information would not see it.
